

Health Promotion & Behavior- Open Rank Professor (Log# 17-118)

School of Public Health

Georgia State University

Atlanta, GA

Georgia State University (GSU) is a leading urban research institution located in Atlanta, Georgia. The School of Public Health is a CEPH-accredited program with more than 400 graduate and undergraduate students and over 47 core faculty and academic professionals. Successful applicants will join a unique, contemporary, multi-disciplinary School of Public Health with emphasis in urban health research, applied public health, health policy, and community applications.

The School of Public Health is currently seeking outstanding applicants for the following position:

Open Rank Professor, Health Promotion & Behavior (Log# 17-118)

The School of Public Health invites applications for the position of Open Rank Professor-Health Promotion & Behavior (HPB). This tenure track position supports teaching, research, and publication activities in the health promotion and disease prevention areas. Health promotion and disease prevention are key concepts in public health and provide the foundation for community participation as well as health behavior change. The GSU School of Public Health's Health Promotion and Behavior track draws from a variety of disciplines, including psychology, sociology, anthropology, communications, and ethics.

Responsibilities: Responsibilities for position include: Conduct a successful, externally-funded research program that includes peer-reviewed publications. Collaborate with GSU Faculty to expand and strengthen research activities in health promotion and behavior. Coordinate and teach courses that address departmental priorities in areas of specialization. Provide academic and research advisement to graduate students and doctoral students.

Qualifications: Evidence of excellence in higher education, a strong record of research and publications, professional achievement warranting tenure and appointment as an open rank professor; evidence of academic administrative experience and demonstrated mentorship; experience working with accredited programs in nutrition and dietetics. Doctoral degree in a related field is required.

*Georgia State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institution.
Women, minorities and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply*

Application Process: Electronic submissions are preferred: Submit a letter of interest; resume or curriculum vitae; and names/contact information for three references to:

Health Promotion & Behavior Search Committee Chair (Log#17-118)
School of Public Health, Georgia State University
P.O. Box 3995
Atlanta, GA, 30302
Phone: 404-413-1130
Email: publichealthjobs@gsu.edu

Electronic submissions are preferred and should be e-mailed to publichealthjobs@gsu.edu. Please include Health Promotion & Behavior Search Committee (Log#17-118) in the subject line.

Please note: Other documentation may be requested of applicants considered for interviews. Employment will be conditional on background investigation/verification.